Organic logo Announcement

Under the policy of 13th Kashag on sustainable development of Tibetan settlements the numbers of activities have been taken on providing training to farmers of major agriculture settlements in India. At the moment organic agricultural cultivation has been persuading in all the Tibetan settlements and every year the quality and quantity output of organic agriculture products are very encouraging.

Therefore, CTRC requires a unique logo to get organic certification for the control of agriculture produce by Tibetan settlements. In November 2005 a logo competition was announced within the Tibetan exile for designing a logo for the organic products and 27 individuals have participated and send their wonderful design of logos. The selection committee has finally chosen the logo designed by former TIPA artist Mr. Rabkar Wangchuk and he will be awarded with prize money of Rs. 3000.

The Organic Logo Definition

The green surrounding circle of the logo represents the wood year in which His Holiness the 14th Dalai Lama was born.

The two wheat straws inside the logo symbolize political and religious structure of the Tibetan government. A corn with the sun on top represents abundance of agricultural produce and four lines in sea represents four natural elements of earth, water, fire and air. This further symbolizes the birth of the outer world and inner sentient beings.

Activities carried out by CTRC

Soil and water conservation programme at Hunsur

Mr. Rob Owen of the Charitable Foundation and Mr. Geoff Armstrong of the Global Development Group, Australia visited Hunsur Rabgyeling Tibetan Settlement on 15 and 16 May 2006 to monitor and evaluate the on-going soil and water conservation programme.

The Charitable Foundation based in Australia has funded the soil and water conservation project at Hunsur and implementation of work began from October 2005. The project has so far covered 1580 acres of land with trench cum bunding of fields, making five desiltation, renovation of existing farm ponds, 25 new farm ponds, 25 gully pluggs, four earthen dams, and two percolation ponds.

The settlement officer Mr. Norbu Tashi and Project Manager Mr. Tenzin Damdul presented a brief report of the activities and financial status of the ongoing project. The briefings on the project by the officers were followed with field visits to the project site.

The meetings were also held with project committee members including settlement officer. Mr. Tsering Dorjee, Deputy Secretary has been officially deputed by the CTRC for the project coordination and monitoring purposes.

The members of the funding agency expressed their full satisfaction towards the amount of work completed so far. The project is running in its second phase and expected to be completed in October 2007.

Shimla housing project

On 11th April 2006 the newly constructed houses were allocated to the 35 Tibetan refugee families. All of these families are from neighboring town of Shimla Khara Pathar, Raru, Sawara and Nargandha areas and applied for the housing in 1984 under the rehabilitation program of Department of Home, CTA. In 1986 the list of these families were screened and approved by the Central Committee consist of members from Central and State government of India and Central Tibetan Administration.

Mr. Tseten Jurmey, Additional Secretary and Tsering Topgyal, Joint Secretary of Home Department has allocated the houses with Tibetan Welfare Officer of Shimla.

Compost making & seed bank project :

Norwegian Church Association (NCA) funded project on compost making and community seed bank has been completed in March 2006. The project was implemented in 13 agricultural settlements including Doegu Yougyal Ling Tibetan settlement at Herbertpur.

Under this project all major agricultural settlements have been able to built different compost pits including Nadep, three chambers and heap compost. The project has also been able to make community seed banks in 13 agricultural settlements including Khera camp.

Geleck Sangpo - a story of progressive farmer

Mr. Geleck Sangpo is a young progressive farmer from Phendeling Tibetan Settlement in Mainpat, Chattisgarh State. Since 2001 Mr.

Mr. Geleck Sangpo, 35 years old,

Geleck has started growing organic crops by using extensive compost and green manure. In the recent years his trail has proven success and many farmers in the settlement are inspired by his organic farming. Mr. Geleck started farming right from his childhood. His mother introduced and he learned farming from her as he use to help her in the field when ever needed. At the age of 18, he dropped from school and started devoting his time in the field with his mother. His mother expired when he was at the age of 25 and he took whole responsible of his family. He also went to Kolkata city with other Tibetans for winter sweater bussiness and very soon he has to quit business because he has experienced tremendous hardship and tension in this business.

Initially he used to cultivate 8 to 10 acres of land and later he extended his farming activities by taking land lease from other farmers and currently he is cultivating 50 acres of land. He purchased one tractor for his farm. Since 2001 out of his total farm land he started practicing the organic farming on his 3 acres of land and use organic compost than conventional chemicals and pesticides.

Mr. Geleck is growing maize, kidney beans, potato, lowland paddy, millets during the kharif (summer) season and wheat, Buck-wheat and mustard during Rabi (winter) cropping season. Simultaneously he also grows different types of fruits in his farm.

Agriculture Division, of the Department of Home, CTA has encouraged and rendering all supports to Mr. Geleck Sangpo to build more compost pits and funded for the construction of one Nadep compost, one Vermi-compost pit and one heap compost. Mr. Geleck is making large scale compost in his farm and proving very successful. Thus his demonstration of organic farming in settlement has been a model and many other farmers are looking to pursue like him.

Geleck Sangpo has shared his personal experience about basic elements for the successful organic farming as; hard working, working for themselves, guidance from experts, green manure cultivation and composting, technique and knowledge on organic farming.

Mr. Geleck narrate "In the 2005 i had cultivated one acre of organic potato and the yield is almost the same as other conventionally grown potatos . But the potato is more nutritious and taste much better. The appearance of the crop looks healthier and water holding capacity of the soil is enhancing year by year"

Profiles:-

Adopt a Granny & Grandad program of CTRC:-

Adopt a Tibetan Granny & Grandad program, run by CTRC, provides the much needed basic support for elderly Tibetans living in exile. These elders took refuge in neighbouring countries of India, Nepal and Bhutan after the failure of mass revolution against the brutal Chinese invasion of Tibet. These elders left all their belongings and relatives at Tibet and in exile they do not have access to conventional pension system and social security. This adoption program provides elderly Tibetans with the means to live with dignity and respect.

Case History of elder Karma, (OPH-164) at Jampaling Elder's Home, Dharamsala.

Individual's History:

Karma was born in 1931 at Lhodrak district of U-tsang province, Tibet in a well to do family. Then Karma was admitted at reputed Dentsa Serkha Guthok Gonpa (traditional Buddhist school) for the traditional study from the age of 7 to 13. He has one brother Kalsang Phuntsok and one sister Tsogyal.

But with the failure of 1959 mass uprising in Lhasa over Chinese brutal invasion of Tibet he fled to Bhutan with his mother and other villagers leaving behind all his belongings. Since then he lives in Jigmeyang Tibetan refugee settlement, Bhutan and his mother expired during the early years of refugees. He spent his hard youthful days working in his field and animal rearing in the settlement. He leads a very lonely life as he left all his relatives in Tibet and never been heard about them since he fled from Tibet. Jigmeyang settlement is located at very remote area of Bhutan and due to lack of proper transportation, all the basic necessity goods cost very high. To overcome his mental trauma and hardship he used to drink alcohol and with passing of years his health became very deteriorated due to alcohol and old age illness, other arthritic problem, also parallel problem of poverty and no family and relatives to look after him.

In Oct 2002 he was admitted in Jampaling Old People's Home, Dharamsala by considering his destitute health and ages. At Jampaling home we care for nutritional foods, regular medication and now it's almost his 6th year at home and his health condition has improved very much and he enjoys at home with other 156 elders. He keeps himself busy with his daily prayers and circumambulating the nearby His Holiness the Dalai Lama's temple. Karma is now 75 years old and adopted as Granddad by Mrs. Martina Zengel, Untermarkt-7, D-85411 Hohenkammer, Germany through GERMAN AID TO TIBETANS, Munchen, Germany.

Karma is one of many 1st generation of Tibetan refugees who suffered due to the social and political insecurity in exile. If any one wishes to support through Adopt Granny/Grandad program of CTRC kindly contact us. We will provide you with detail case histories of elders and be in touch with regular correspondence with them.
